Pain Medication

Depending on the procedure an injection for pain may be given to your pet post-surgery. Every surgical patient will be sent home with pain medication.

Laser Therapy

Every surgical patient will receive laser therapy on their wound post-surgery. This process speeds the healing process and relieves pain.

Microchip Option

_____ I WOULD like my pet microchipped while under anesthesia

_____ I WOULD NOT like my animal microchipped while under anesthesia

Pre-Anesthetic Testing Authorization

Advances in anesthesia and surgery have made routine surgery safer. In addition, we will perform a physical exam prior to anesthetizing your pet in order to screen for obvious health problems. However, a physical exam alone may not identify all of your pet's problems; therefore, we strongly suggest a pre-anesthetic profile of laboratory tests to be performed prior to anesthesia to help us identify any abnormalities that may result in an increased risk for your pet. The tests we recommend are very similar to and equally as important as those tests your physician would perform before you would undergo surgery and/or anesthesia.
